Gossips (Maaka) by Grace Setalekgosi (Botswana)

Gossips have neither head nor tail, back nor front
They create a clay cow
Until it cries that 'moos' lows
And at sunrise you 'Kotela' its claf;
its milk fills pails,

Dipotso came out with the words last night
When meeting her on the road.
Mpho clapped her thigh
'I want to know since when Molefi became my lover.'
The entanglement of words brought about by whoever;
So and so had heard them from such and such
Who had been whispered to by guess who?

Gossip is the 'diketo' of females
A game with which they distract themselves
Men's talk makes them impatient
They are the ones who want to tatter a man who gossips smells to them like a skunk
